This map shows the part Ukraine's territory controlled by the government and areas controlled by the Russian Federation as of February 2024.

The Autonomous Republic of Crimea was annexed in 2014, and at the same time, Ukrainian government lost control over parts of Luhansk and Donetsk Regions. This status quo existed until February 24, 2022, when Russia launched a full-scale invasion of Ukraine. Since then, other Ukrainian regions have come under the control of the Russian Federation. The active combat operations continue. Currently, besides the Republic of Crimea, Luhansk Region and most of Donetsk Region, non-government-controlled territory also includes a significant part of Kherson and Zaporizhzhia Regions.

Thank you for your emergency response

Kakhovka HPP

As a result of the explosion of the Kakhovska HPP on June 6, 2023, part of the territories of the Kherson region are unfit for life, and neighboring regions suffer from water problems.

Kakhovka Hydropower Plant’s dam was destroyed in an explosion on June 6, 2023, which led to rapid flooding of settlements located on the banks of Dnipro River downstream from Kakhovka Water Reservoir. Around 40,000 people living on the right bank of the Dnipro in the critical flood zone required urgent evacuated. The situation in the localities on the left bank of the Dnipro the was rather difficult to assess, since this part of Kherson Region is temporarily not controlled by the Ukrainian Government. Kakhovka Water Reservoir was used to supply water, including potable water, to large industrial cities such as Kryvyi Rih, Marhanets, Nikopol, Kherson, and Pokrov, which are home to about 700,000 people. Rapid Kakhovka Reservoir swallowing caused by Kakhovka Hydropower Plant’s dam destruction badly affected the agriculture in the area due to limited access to water. The population also had lost access to clean potable water. Even if the centralized water supply is restored, the dam disaster led to contamination of the local water resources for many years to come.

As a result of the hostilities, Ukrainian cities such as Mariupol, Volnovakha, Avdiivka, Horlivka, Bakhmut, Severodonetsk, Rubizhne and others have suffered critical destruction. Settlements located on the government-controlled territories are regularly exposed to artillery shellfire and missile strikes.
